

Section I

Musings on migration

We received a variety of articles written by students studying architecture or its allied fields from institutes all over the country. The following entries are pieces on migration, the various forms it takes and the impacts it can have.